ECR - Conventions Rubric

After reading a student's paper, check the box that best represents their response.
The columns are assigned different point values. Only mark ONE box per row.
Based on the boxes you marked in each row, multiply that number of boxes by the number assigned to that column.
Add the points together. That is the raw score of the student's response.
To determine the scale score (holistic and gradebook equivalent), look at the charts below the rubric.
